

Santa Clara County: A Profile of Poverty, Hunger & Food Assistance

Santa Clara County FAST FACTS

- ♦ Santa Clara County ranks 55th out of 58 counties in California in poverty and 52nd in child poverty.
- ♦ Only 28 percent of school-aged needy children in Santa Clara County eat a free or reduced-price breakfast.
- ♦ Between January 2001 and January 2002, the unemployment rate in Santa Clara County increased from 1.7 percent to 7.5 percent.

Despite California's economic and agricultural prosperity, one in six Californians is hungry or at serious risk of hunger—significantly worse than the nation as a whole. Hunger is a symptom of poverty; far too many families experience devastating health consequences when their low wages or modest public benefits can't cover the cost of housing, utilities and food.

Underutilization of Federal Food Programs

Even as the demand for charitable food assistance increased by 23 percent last year, federal food programs are failing to serve eligible, hungry families. Bureaucratic hassles and the stigma of receiving assistance prevent people from getting the help they need. Federal food programs—if fully utilized—are essential for fighting hunger in Santa Clara County.

To prevent hunger in Santa Clara County:

- ♦ Write a letter in support of state legislation to eliminate red tape in the Food Stamp Program.
- ♦ Urge school officials to ensure that every school in Santa Clara County provides breakfast.
- ♦ Contact school and community leaders in your county about expanding the Summer Food Program so that needy children don't go hungry when school is out.
- ♦ Work with childcare centers and homes to ensure that children get nutritious meals through the CACFP.

Food Stamp Program

As our nation's largest and most comprehensive nutrition assistance program, the Food Stamp Program provides an average benefit of $75 per month to almost 2 million people in California. Citizens and legal immigrants are usually eligible if they meet certain income and asset requirements. The most basic criteria is that a household must have an income below 130 percent of the Federal Poverty Line (FPL).

WIC

WIC is the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children, a program designed for low-income women and children up to age 5. Through WIC, families receive vouchers each month for specific nutritious foods, as well as individual counseling and health care referrals. To qualify, families must live below 185 percent FPL and must be at risk of nutrition-related health problems.

School & Community Nutrition Programs

Through the National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs, schools provide students of all ages with the nutritious meals they need in order to learn. Enrolled children who live below 130 percent FPL can receive free meals, while children living above 130 percent but below 185 percent FPL qualify for meals at a reduced price.

Through the Summer Food Service Program, schools, non-profit agencies, and recreation programs provide free lunch to students when school is not in session. Students who qualify for free or reduced-priced lunch are eligible. In addition, all children in areas with over 50 percent free and reduced-price lunch enrollment are eligible for free lunch during the summer.

CACFP

The Child and Adult Care Food Program is the only program that provides funding for meals served in a childcare setting to children up to age 13 and impaired adults. Through this program, certified child care programs are reimbursed for 2 meals and 1 snack each day, with higher reimbursements for those living at or below the 185 percent FPL.
